FAVOR LANGFITT PLAN FOR HARNESSING FALLS

Army Engineers Indorse Potomac
Power Plant Project.

Indorsing the project of the Langfitt Board in 1913 for the establishment of a power plant at Great Falls to increase the water supply of the District and at the same time develop more power for electric lights and other government uses, the finding of the special board of engineers appointed to study the situation was submitted to Secretary Baker yesterday.

The members of the board were Col. H. C. Newcomer, Lieut. Col. C. A. F. Flagler, and Lieut. Col. W. W. Harts, whose study of the project extended over a period of several months.

The estimated cost of the plant as submitted by the Langfitt Board was $5,172,600 for increase of the water supply, and $9,849,000 for power development. This cost has always blocked the consummation of the plan, although the advantages to be derived both by the Federal government and the District have always been recognized when legislation has been brought to bear on the subject. The new board, which made its report yesterday, has been operating on the theory that a plant built near the falls could be established at far less expense if the question of increasing the water supply were eliminated and only the power possibilities considered.

Owing to lack of funds the board was obliged to use the data gathered by the Langfitt Board, and the substance of the report rendered is that the Langfitt plan, which provided for both the water supply and the power conservation, is the most feasible.

It is believed that the report embodies a plea for the preservation of the scenic beauty of the falls in case action should be taken toward building the plant.
